

'Ma' Still Hopes

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UPI) — Grey-haired Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Duncan clung to hope last night that her son, husband of the woman slain at "Ma" Duncan's order, would save her from death today in the San Quentin gas chamber.

Mrs. Duncan's attorneys, including her son Frank, were turned down Tuesday in petitions to the U.S. Supreme Court and to the U.S. District Court in Los Angeles but planned to carry the fight to the last possible minute. (See Page 6.)

A prison official said Mrs. Duncan, 38, appeared to be "in a dream world" as she arrived at San Quentin from the state prison for women at Corona in southern California. She is scheduled for execution at 10 a.m.

U.K. Firm On Parley For Fall

LONDON (CP) — The British government apparently has no intention of changing its plans for the prime ministers' conference here Sept. 10 despite a suggestion from the deputy Labor leader that it be postponed. Some observers suggest that the government—now that the initial disappointment over the deadlocked Common Market talks has ebbed a bit—is growing hopeful that much can be accomplished, although there will be no firm outline of market membership terms to put before the Commonwealth leaders.

Blast Blaze Flickers Out

MAPLE, Ont. (CP) — Flames blazing since Saturday night in the shambles of an explosion-torn propane gas plant flickered out Tuesday night, but firemen said one 30,000-gallon tank was still dangerously hot. With about 24 families barred from their neighborhood homes for fear of further blasts, firemen were spraying the red-hot tank with water to cool it down.

Berlin Pigeon Fans Foil 'Flying Death' Campaign

BERLIN (UPI) — The pigeons came out on top Tuesday as the East-West Berlin conflict temporarily gave way to a feather-weight battle. After months of planning and argument with animal protection societies, the West Berlin city government sent out flying squads of police and technicians at dawn Tuesday on "Operation Pigeon Death."

The squads were to scatter

'Miracle Operations' Old Hat

VANCOUVER (CP) — Today's "miracle operations" in which severed limbs are sewn back on are old hat to Albert Wannop, 68.

He saw the same thing happen on his kitchen table in 1937.

Mr. Wannop said in an interview he was moving hay on his farm 14 miles west of Champion, Alta., when he ran over his son James, about 3. He said his son's foot was severed at the ankle and the foot, he thinks it was the right, was dangling by one cord.

He rushed his son to the house about a mile away and phoned Dr. Edwin H. Freeze at Champion. Dr. Freeze was at the house in 15 minutes.

"He sewed the severed limb back in place as best he could, put on a splint, and took him (the boy) 80 miles to Calgary. "When he got to the hospital the doctor there said the job was so good he couldn't improve on it."

The foot was put in a cast. It took six months before James, now a United Church minister at Ashmont, 120 miles northeast of Edmonton, could walk. He now only has a slight limp.

A. J. D. Hagerman of Calgary, a former member of the Champion council, Tuesday night said he remembered the operation.

"It was more than a miracle," said Mr. Wannop who left his farm 20 years ago and moved to Vancouver.

His Hand Replaced Long Ago

CALGARY (CP) — Forty-year-old Bud Toner, a Calgary painter, flexed the hand and wrist that were sewn back on his arm 36 years ago by a country doctor whose name has been forgotten, and said:

"The doctor told mom and dad the wrist and hand would always be stiff, but look now..."

The incident of the severed limb which was sewn back on by a Saskatchewan doctor in 1926 was recalled as the medical spotlight focussed on recent rare operations which have rejoined severed limbs.

FOR THE RECORD

"I'm tickled pink to hear Calgary doctors have sewn back on Hazel Donlin's arm and that boy's arm in Boston, but for the record I think that Saskatchewan doctor who tacked Bud's wrist to his body should be mentioned," said Bud's father, Mark Toner.

The doctor is remembered only as "Dr. George" — the Toners are not sure whether it was his surname or his Christian name—but the details of the accident and the operation are well remembered.

ASLEEP IN FIELD

Bud, three years old, was asleep in a field of rye on the family's farm near Harris, Sask., 45 miles southwest of Saskatoon. His mother, driving a binder, did not see the boy among the tall stalks. She heard a little scream and found Bud—writhing on the ground behind the machine.

A silver of skin held hand and wrist to arm. His leg was broken in two places.

Surgeons Hope For Success

CHICAGO (AP) — Three surgeons were guardedly optimistic yesterday as to the condition of a 41-year-old bindery worker whose severed right hand was rejoined to his arm at the wrist in a rare operation.

Testing Race Looming Up

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

An intensified testing race, multiplying the risks and dangers of accidental nuclear war, may be in the making between Russia and the United States if no progress is made in current test ban negotiations at Geneva.

The U.S. has indicated willingness to modify its position on international inspection and control as part of renewed negotiations with Russia for a permanent ban on all nuclear testing.

There is ground for suggesting in the event that all current efforts to work out a complete test ban fail, that there might at least be a way open to ending atmospheric tests, leaving the nuclear powers free to underground tests and their lesser fallout. The U.S. might agree to an East-West moratorium on air tests if Russia would join in the pledge.

In other words, the U.S. is prepared to go a long way from its previous fixed position in order to work out an agreement that might provide a significant first step in turning humanity's dream of disarmament into reality.

RESPONSE COOL

But Russia remains cool. The initial Soviet reaction is that the new American position does not offer any great hope for cracking the East-West stalemate.

Russia wants a nuclear test ban to be based solely on national inspection systems, with no foreign inspection on her soil.

FOOLPROOF EVIDENCE

U.S. authorities argue it may be comparatively easy to police an atmospheric nuclear ban through improved detection systems. But while these systems may provide a way of reducing the number of on-site inspections, they would not eliminate entirely the need for such inspections.

Reds Pour In

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The landing of more than 4,000 Russian soldiers in Cuba was claimed Tuesday night in a Spanish language broadcast of Miami radio station WMLB.

The accident victim's name was being withheld pending notification of next-of-kin. He was not believed to be a local man.

Police said the car went out of control, struck the bridge and burst into flames. An autopsy revealed the man was unconscious during the fire.

Not Much Like Mule

It's mighty like a pony, sighs Harry Cousins of 3981 Borden while he examines the colt from his pony Cherokee which he had bred by a donkey. As any donkey knows, a donkey and a horse make a mule, and Mr. Cousins had been hoping for a pony-size pinto—two-colored—mule. The colt is pinto, like Cherokee, but doesn't look like a mule. Cherokee was in seclusion for three weeks after the breeding and assuming the donkey was sire—Mr. Cousins thinks anything else is improbable—the colt was born 10 days late. (Colonist photo.)

Bedside Ceremony For New Cabinet

OTTAWA (CP) — For the first time in Canadian history new members of the cabinet are to be sworn in at the prime minister's home instead of the governor-general's residence. Because of Prime Minister

Diefenbaker's ankle injury, Thursday's noon swearing-in ceremony will take place in his house at 24 Sussex Drive.

Reversing the usual procedure, Governor-General Vanier will cross the street from Rideau Hall to receive the new ministers. The actual swearing-in is done by Robert Bryce, clerk of the Privy Council.

The present cabinet is to meet at 10:30 a.m. today at the prime minister's residence at which time he may inform his ministers of the appointments.

Five vacancies were created in the 24-member cabinet by the June 18 general election.

Motorist Burns To Death

A southbound motorist died in a burning car that went out of control and struck a railing on the Diamond Bridge north of Ladysmith last night.

The accident victim's name was being withheld pending notification of next-of-kin. He was not believed to be a local man.

Police said the car went out of control, struck the bridge and burst into flames. An autopsy revealed the man was unconscious during the fire.

Timber Lord Founds Fund

VANCOUVER (CP) — R. R. MacMillan, British Columbia timber magnate, has established a $2,000,000 trust fund for education and welfare.

Britons Storm Nazi Camp

LONDON (CP) — Angry villagers Tuesday night stormed past cudgel-swinging guards to break up a Nazi camp in the English countryside.

But the raiding party from the village of Gilling Power in Gloucestershire found no trace of George Lincoln Rockwell, the self-styled American fuhrer who earlier Tuesday was ordered deported from Britain.

Scotland Yard has been told to look for Rockwell, who spent the weekend at the camp.

TENTS TORN-DOWN

Led by five stalwarts from the Farmer's Arms, the local village pub, 100 men and women tore down tents, stamped out camp fires and put the jack-booted Nazi sympathizers to flight.

A shotgun blast tore out the centre of a swastika flag which fluttered above the rally, organized by Colin Jordan's British National Socialist Movement.

FLEE TO WOODS

With the tents down and their contents strewn over the field, about 50 campers grabbed what belongings they could find and fled into surrounding woods and fields.

Local farmers scuffled on the ground with campers wearing uniforms of grey shirts, shorts and leather belts. A number of foreign delegates to the rally were beaten up.

Jordan's right-hand man, John Tyndall, was punched in the face. Jordan stood away from the scuffle but fiercely argued his party's case.

'RID OF JEWS'

"We want to get rid of the Jews," he roared.

As he spoke, his tattered swastika flag was torn down and carried off as a battle trophy.

Advisory Council Studied

Formation of a Canadian national economic advisory council will be discussed in the near future in Ottawa and provincial capitals across the country.

Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba was requested by the third conference of provincial premiers which ended yesterday in Victoria to detail his suggestions for setting up such a body. (See Page 7.)

His memorandum will be supplied to all the provincial premiers and Prime Minister Diefenbaker for study by their governments.

Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec, chairman of the two-day conference of premiers, told reporters the provinces would continue to study the proposal in the light of information contained in the memorandum.

"We have reached no conclusions here," said Premier Lesage. "This was simply a first exploratory move."

Quebec Fears Termed Just

Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec said in Victoria the people of his province are justly uneasy because of the tendencies they perceive today in the development of the federal system of government.

The federal machinery, he said Tuesday night, has been misused in the course of Canada's history, either for administrative convenience or because of emergency such as war.

"The central government has assumed numerous responsibilities, which constitutionally belonged to the provinces," the Quebec premier said.

position of French-Canadian Quebec in it are not new but are more widespread than in the past because the people there have developed considerably. "They now feel that they can play a bigger part in the life of our country," he said.

Just Wait Till Next Year Says Flying Daredevil

LETHBRIDGE (CP) — A man who flew aloft—briefly—in a parachute at the end of a tow rope, squinted through a black eye from his hospital bed and said: "I don't think I'll try it over land again."

The airborne adventure of George Sinclair, 36, of Coaldale, Alta., landed him in hospital with a broken pelvis, black eye and skinned arms.

"My career is ended for this year," he said dejectedly. "I'll watch out next year."

The parachute flip Sunday which saw him soaring up to 20 feet above the earth was just another in a series of daredevil escapades for the Coaldale fireman.

The day before the accident, George was soaring around the Coaldale ball park. But he has made most of his flights over water, at the end of a tow rope.

"You feel light as a feather up there. Real nice. It's a great sensation," he said.

His Sunday flight plan called for a friend, Edward Smith, of Lethbridge, to drive a car with George and his parachute in tow.

As the tow rope tightened, George began running, his specially designed parachute trailing. He leaped into the air at about 10 m.p.h. Nothing happened.

George's feet dangling. Then Ed wondered: "Where did George go? He's not up there where he should be."

He found the parachutist piled up on the ground. He gave mouth-to-mouth artificial respiration. Then the ambulance took the low-flying aviator to hospital.

George said he remembered nothing after a hook on the parachute harness broke. He recalled floating like a bird, then waking up in hospital. The parachute mishap probably means no more water skiing—without skis—this year. He likes to bounce along behind a tow boat, sitting on a kitchen stool mounted on a couple of saucers.

Scientist's Prediction

More Efficient When Frustrated?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If you think life is frustrating now, have a look at what one University of Southern California psychologist has in mind for the future.

Dr. Langdon E. Longstreth believes humans may become more efficient when frustrated.

It works out that way with rats, he says, and he has built a machine to prove his theory with humans.

"It's possible we might be able to induce a little frustration into some of the assembly line chores—such as fitting A into slot B—and increase the efficiency of the operators and hence the whole production line," Dr. Longstreth says.

His machine consists of a seat for the subject and some lights which the subject turns on and off with a lever. Dr. Longstreth has built in some booby traps.

Just when you think you have learned that bright lights are always turned off by a right turn on the lever and the dim lights are turned off by a left turn, something happens. The gadget doesn't work that way anymore.

"When you frustrate a laboratory rat with a simple problem involving food as his reward," Dr. Longstreth says in a report on his experiment released by the school, "he will move through the problem twice as fast on the next try."

"It is our hope that, with the apparatus, we'll be able to prove the same point with humans."

Doctors, Druggists Across Canada Warned About Pill

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian doctors and druggists will receive a "warning letter" telling them of possible side effects on some women of two oral contraceptives now being sold in Canada, it was disclosed Tuesday.

However, Dr. C. A. Morrell, director of the Food and Drug Division of the federal health department, said in an interview there is no evidence that the drugs enovid and ortho-vum can cause thrombophlebitis—blood clots that can lead to death.

USUAL PROCEDURE

He said the warning letter to doctors and druggists is "usual procedure" following reports that use of a particular drug has produced side effects. It will be sent out this week.

A similar procedure was followed in 1961 after German reports said that the drug thalidomide caused congenital malformations when taken by pregnant women. The baby-deforming drug was later withdrawn from sale in Canada.

FATAL CASES

Dr. Morrell said the warning letter to doctors and druggists follows reports from the United States and Britain of fatal cases of thrombophlebitis among women who used enovid. Six women are reported to have died in the U.S. and one in Britain.

Five Detained Two Months

LIEGE, Belgium (AP)—A 25-year-old mother accused of killing her deformed baby has been in jail here—along with her doctor and three close relatives—more than two months during a police investigation.

A local court is expected to extend today the warrant under which the mother, Suzanne Coupet-Vandepuit, and four others have been detained since June 1.

Babies Lack Deformities

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. Food and Drug Administration said 207 pregnant American women were among 15,904 Americans given thalidomide pills, but none has given birth to a deformed child.

In Europe, where thousands of deformed babies have been born, thalidomide was used to ward off nausea in the crucial first three months of pregnancy. In the U.S., it was used as a sedative after the first three months.

Meeting Set By Doctors

PRINCE ALBERT (CP)—Rod Thompson, acting provincial chairman of the Keep Our Doctors' committee, said Tuesday "disturbing occurrences" have prompted plans for a meeting of the committee next Sunday in Regina.

"It is obvious there is going to be a need for our committee, or one like it, to get back to work," he said.

He referred to "disturbing medicare occurrences in the Weyburn region and elsewhere," but did not elaborate.

However, Dr. Morrell stressed there is no evidence that the drug caused the deaths. Dr. Morrell said the warning also included the drug ortho-vum because "it is so similar in its composition that it might be looked upon with suspicion."

'Excited' Dr. Kelsey Didn't Hear Kennedy

WASHINGTON—Dr. Frances Oldham Kelsey, a native of Cobble Hill, B.C., was "too excited" to hear what President Kennedy said yesterday as he presented her with the highest U.S. decoration for civilian service.

Dr. Kelsey of the Food and Drug Administration, won the decoration for blocking sale of the infant-deforming drug thalidomide.

"MOST INDEBTED"

"We're all most indebted to Dr. Kelsey," President Kennedy said as he placed the blue ribbon of the medal around her neck.

"All of us who have hopes for our children know how important this work is."

Dr. Kelsey admitted afterward she could not remember a word of what the president said.

FAMILY THERE

"I think I was too excited to hear him," she said.

Spectators included her husband, Dr. F. Ellis Kelsey, special assistant to the U.S. surgeon-general; their two daughters, Susan, 15, and Christine, 12; two brothers, Stuart Oldham, Vernon, B.C., and John Oldham, Vancouver, and a niece, Nancy Oldham, 15, of Vernon. Her sister Monica stayed at home in Victoria.

TELEGRAM

Proud residents of Cobble Hill sent this telegram: "Congratulations from your many old friends at Cobble Hill, B.C.,

Canada, Signed—The Cheekes, the Bonners and all of the town."

Monday, Dr. Kelsey urged the U.S. Senate judiciary committee to approve President Kennedy's requests for increased federal policing of possibly dangerous new drugs.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate judiciary committee approved Tuesday two of President Kennedy's key proposals for further safeguarding the United States public against dangerous drugs.

gift from the United States had been found contaminated with a chemical that causes partial paralysis.

Deputy Food Minister A. M. Thomas said an investigation failed to disclose how the chemical, which he identified as triortho-cresyl-phosphate, got into the flour. He said 6,300 persons in West Bengal and Assam were reported to have suffered paralytic attacks after eating food prepared with the flour.

The U.S. embassy quickly declared in a statement that it wanted to "stress again that there is no evidence whatever that the contamination occurred in the flour prior to its arrival in India."

The embassy said the flour was processed under the same standards as that consumed in the United States.

Officer Shot —No Intent

CALGARY (CP) — Joseph Millard, 32, who shot a policeman twice in the leg June 18, was sentenced Tuesday to two months imprisonment for possession of a firearm for dangerous purposes and assaulting a police officer. He was acquitted of wounding with intent to avoid arrest.

Millard was arrested in the basement of the Red Cross blood transfusion laboratory here.

Sect Men Freed

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — Conspiracy charges against 70 members of the radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobor Sect were dismissed Tuesday after a 32-day hearing that officials estimated cost the crown $100,000.

Magistrate William Evans of Nelson, an expert on Doukhobor affairs, refused to commit the 70 members of the Freedomite Fraternal Council on Crown evidence they conspired to intimidate the governments of Canada and British Columbia—the first time such a charge was ever laid in Canada.

The Freedomites and their supporters broke into hymn singing in the crowded courtroom when the magistrate announced his verdict.

Freedomite spokesman William Moniesky told reporters that with the dismissal "justice has been done."

Witnesses 'Scuttled' Crown

Bonner Blames 48

Reluctant witnesses scuttled the Crown's case against 70 Sons of Freedom Doukhobor leaders who were acquitted yesterday in a New Westminster court on charges of conspiracy.

"The public should know," said Attorney-General Bonner, "that Crown counsel were confronted with a very difficult and technical case."

"It was complicated by the fact that 48 witnesses, upon whom the crown had relied in bringing these charges, either changed their stories or refused to testify after the case came to court."

Most of these witnesses were Doukhobors.

Mr. Bonner said crown counsel have been asked to study the magistrate's decision most carefully.

"I will await their report before announcing anything further of our intentions," he said.

The attorney-general said the magistrate was one of the most experienced in the province. He refused to comment on the decision beyond saying it was doubtless reached after long deliberation.

Mr. Bonner gave no indication of what action might be taken. In normal circumstances there is no appeal.

Wives Send Appeal At Fulton 'Gestapo'

NELSON (CP)—A group of Sons of Freedom women yesterday protested to Justice Minister Fulton over their husbands' troubles in the special mountain prison 70 miles east of Vancouver, which they called "a Gestapo measure." They demanded clothing, bedding and food to ease their husbands' cold and hunger and ended abruptly: "Wire reply."

Cast, Director Thanked

Pageant-Like Event Here Every Year?

Ald. Michael Griffin hopes something like Victoria's centennial pageant will be put on here every year.

Representing Victoria city council, following the final performance of the pageant, he said:

"When it was first suggested we attempt an event of this kind, we had a lot of doubting

Thomases and those who had genuine concern for the sanity of those actively suggesting it could be done . . .

"I think we have seen a changed Victoria—for the good—and never again will we sit back and presume that Victorians are non-participants."

EACH YEAR

"It is my personal hope that from this year forward, we will each year about the time of the city's birthday, stage a major effort for the enjoyment of our citizens and visitors alike."

He thanked the cast and others associated with the show, and read a message from Mayor R. B. Wilson which said, in part:

"Everywhere one goes, one hears only praise for the outstanding performance and the beautiful setting of the Victoria Story. This is indeed the highlight of our centennial year."

SIGNED SCROLL

The pageant cast of about 1,000 presented director Dudley Remus and his assistant Mike Rudisill, each with a scroll signed by all cast members and a Vancouver Island Indian sweater.

On arrival here they were greeted by representatives of various Chinese civic organizations headed by Chinese consul Pon Ling Chee.

The group left almost immediately on a CPA trans-Canada flight.

Fire Block Thwarted

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—An attempt to barricade by fire the 12-car motorcade travelling across Canada to mark official opening of the Trans-Canada Highway was thwarted Tuesday.

Ray MacFarlane, at odds with the provincial government over the price he should receive for a section of his property expropriated for the new highway, started a bonfire of timber and gasoline-filled rubber tires in an attempt to halt the cavalcade as it passed near his home at Penobscia, about 60 miles northeast of here.

But a construction company bulldozer pushed the burning obstacle to the roadside.

Sea-Life Expert Dies Here

One of the world's foremost authorities on barnacles, Dr. Edmund Cornwall, died in Victoria Monday. He was 77.

Funeral services will be held in Haywards at 1:30 p.m. today.

Born in St. John, N.B., he came to Victoria in 1899 and was employed at William Head quarantine station. He retired in 1935 after 28 years in federal service to devote his full time to research.

Mr. Cornwall, a fellow of the Royal Geological Society, once was employed to identify barnacle species for the U.S. national museum.

Liquor Shift Works

New B.C. liquor legislation permitting Indians to buy liquor and take it home seems to be working out satisfactorily, officials here said yesterday.

Chief Ed Underwood of the East Saanich Indian Reserve said: "We can stay home in the evening instead of staying at the beer parlor until 11 o'clock. They should have had this years ago."

Attorney General Bonner said "we have learned of no problems" arising from the government's decision July 2.

A pension boost for ex-Saach employees who retired before April 1, 1957, will be recommended to Saanich council by finance committee.

Seventeen superannuated employees are eligible for the increases suggested to be effective Sept. 1 and ranging between $9.80 and $25.

Seven persons were taken to Rest Haven Hospital following a two-car crash at Beacon Avenue and the new Patricia Bay Highway extension near Sidney yesterday. All were released after checkups. Damage totalled $200.

On arrival here they were greeted by representatives of various Chinese civic organizations headed by Chinese consul Pon Ling Chee.

The group left almost immediately on a CPA trans-Canada flight.

Anti-Smoke Case Adjourned Again

Hearing of 11 counts against seven firms charged with violation of the city's anti-smoke ordinance was adjourned to Aug. 20 in magistrate's court yesterday.

The adjournment was ordered by Magistrate William Oatler after Marsh Gordon, defence counsel for Moore-Whittington Lumber Co., argued the bylaw under which charges were laid was ultra vires of the city's power under the Municipal Act.

He said a "fatal variance" appeared in the language of the bylaw and the section of the Act covering air pollution control.

He also contended the provision in the bylaw which allows the smoke inspector to extend the time allowed for discharge of smoke was invalid.

Mr. Gordon was one of a battery of eight lawyers appearing in court to defend the seven companies charged.

Seventh Firm Agrees

Two counts have been laid against Standard Steam Laundry, B.C. Forest Products Victoria Paving Co. Ltd. and McCarther Shingle Co.

Moore-Whittington Lumber Co. and Capital Iron and Metals Ltd. face a single charge each.

Defence counsel for Economy Steam Laundry, seventh company charged, which was due in court today, agreed to the adjournment pending decision on Mr. Gordon's argument.

Pirates Win New Victory

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Gilbert and Sullivan operetta Pirates of Penzance, produced and played by Stratford, Ont., actors, opened at the Vancouver International Festival Monday night.

Vancouver Province critic Mike Tytherleigh praised Tyrone Guthrie's production of the operetta as having been done with "a master touch."

Goofball Roundup

Mountie Shaves!

VANCOUVER (CP)—James Hunt, 24, had his first good shave and change of clothes in a long while Tuesday.

Monday, he was a bearded, long-haired addict in the city's east end, buying goofballs and narcotics from underworld pedlars every chance he got. Tuesday, he appeared in police court, clean shaven and in his RCMP uniform.

LONG MASQUERADE

Const. Hunt had ended a six-month masquerade as an addict, gathering evidence for the first major crackdown in Canada on the sale of goofballs.

Thirty-four men and eight women were charged with trafficking in narcotics and goofballs as a result of his work.

ACTION NEEDED

He was brought in from an undisclosed detachment more than six months ago when federal authorities decided an undercover job was needed to crack down on goofballs, brought under the federal Food and Drug Act last September.

Goofballs are barbiturates and sedatives, usually mixed with alcohol by addicts as a substitute for narcotics. Vancouver was chosen for the undercover job because 2,000 of Canada's 4,000 addicts are here.

The young constable lived with addicts for several months.

City drug squad detectives said the underworld knew "something was going on" but Const. Hunt's identity was never revealed.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own homes without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissues on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Garden Notes

Beware the Aphids

By M. V. CHESTNUT, FRES
We have been undergoing a plague of tiny flying aphids in our garden this past few days. The air has been full of them—they have been getting in our hair, up our noses, on our clothes, and the other day when we were having tea on the patio, three of the little beasts were in my cup before I could drink it. All of this bodes no good for our plants.

The reason aphids multiply at such astronomical rates is because of their unusual method of reproduction. The females that hatch in the spring do not need to find themselves a husband and go through the mating process—all that was taken care of the previous fall.

On reaching full growth, these female aphids give birth to living young—there is no time wasted on egg-laying. Within a few days, these daughters too become mothers, again without benefit of a husband. And so it goes, with the aphid population doubling every few days, with no waste motion in courtship, marriage or egg-laying and incubation.

Ordinarily these are the familiar crawling aphids we know so well from their clusters on the buds and growing tips of our roses and on the backs of the leaves of our delphiniums and other plants. Occasionally through the summer, though, a generation of aphids develop wings, enabling them to migrate to other plants. The wind may carry them for miles into other gardens—of into your cup of tea. This is why a plant which was perfectly clean a week ago may be sick and crippled from loss of sap to hordes of sucking aphids, and why, once in a while, dusting or spraying just isn't good enough to control this pest.

All through the summer, the aphid world is a woman's world, with only females on the scene. In the fall, a generation of males appear and mating takes place—a single mating that produces many generations of offspring. After mating, the females lay winter-hardy eggs on any convenient plants, and these carry over to start a whole new infestation the following spring.

I get quite a few letters from home gardeners complaining that the insecticides they bought were no good. "I dusted my plants as you suggested, and it seemed to do some good for a little while, but after a couple of weeks the aphids were just as bad as ever."

If you keep in mind the extraordinary rate at which aphids multiply, and the ease with which the winged generations can come drifting in to colonize a perfectly aphid-free garden, you will see why one or two squirts of insecticide through the whole growing season cannot do more than interrupt temporarily the activities of these sap-suckers.

Ideally, all your plants should be sprayed or dusted once a week throughout the season. If such a rigid routine takes all the fun out of your gardening, at least cut loose with the duster or sprayer, squirting everything in sight, every time you find aphids on your plants. And don't expect one dusting to last all summer.

Brigitte to 'Give' New Bride To Ex-Husband

LONDON (NANA)—Brigitte Bardot will give away the bride—Catherine Demuove—when the latter marries BB's ex-husband, Roger Vadim. The future Mrs. Vadim, Roger, and his daughter by Annette Boleyn (Brigitte is her godmother), have been staying cozily with Brigitte in her villa at St. Tropez.

Ruby Parker and a male model in Paris are the stars of ace photographer Dick Avedon's fashion satire on Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton. The layout will appear in Avedon's favorite fashion magazine in America.

Laurence Harvey will do "Of Human Bondage" immediately following his current movie for Mr. Carol Reed, "The Running Man."

Stephen Boyd might have been kidding when he told me—in Rome—of a new discovery, an injection into a neck gland, that makes old people very young. "A man of 80 had it, married again, and had a new batch of children," said Steve. Where is this stuff?!

Mrs. Richard Burton's friends are worried that the strain is finally getting her down. They say Sybil is quite shaky. No wonder, after such public and continued humiliation!... Burton has not given up hope of landing the Professor Higgins role in the movie of "My Fair Lady" with Audrey Hepburn.

Judy Garland signed for September at the Sands in Vegas. And, unless they have another quarrel, Ed and will be with her. Judy sings four wonderful songs in her recently completed movie here, "The Lonely Stage"—the last song, "I Could Keep on Singing," is in the smash class. Miss Garland will have to watch her health for a long time—hard liquor is out.

Nanna Hayward gets a new leading man in "Champagne Flight"—the ruggedly handsome Michael Craig whom I met first with David Niven in Rome in "The Captive City," then in Columbia's "Iron Maiden" film in the English countryside.

Mob Expected at Monroe Funeral

Fifteen Invited, But...

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Police are preparing for a mob scene today at the funeral of screen siren Marilyn Monroe.

So far, the list of those invited—a list prepared by ex-husband Joe DiMaggio—stands at only about 15. As arrangements were being conspired to cope with thousands of uninvited mourners, a New York newspaper reported that the 35-year-old actress had tried suicide four times in her drama-filled life.

Meanwhile, an investigation continued in whether her death was accident or suicide and who made a mysterious telephone call to her the night she died.

The blonde movie star was found dead last Sunday in her Brentwood home, victim of an overdose of sleeping pills.

Many of Marilyn's friends in the movie industry want to pay final respects at the non-denominational services.

"There are some friends of Marilyn who should be there," said one of the actress' associates, but DiMaggio, famed ex-baseball star, has pared the list to 15, none of them movie stars. "He's running the show."

Post Carl Sandburg, a good friend of Marilyn's, was asked to read the eulogy, but his wife said the 80-year-old Sandburg would not make the trip from his home in Flat Rock, N.C.

"I was sorry to see her go," said Sandburg. "There are a lot of others like myself."

Mrs. Pat Kennedy Lawford, sister of the president, cut short a vacation at Hyannis Port, Mass., to fly home for the funeral.

Still unexplained is the mysterious phone call late Saturday night which her housekeeper said she believes may have upset her and caused her to take more pills.

The New York Post listed four suicide attempts by the actress—two before she was 19, another one five years ago and the latest four years ago.

This posed the question: If such a suicidal history existed, why was a prescription for 50 pills ordered re-filled just two days before her death?

Condemned Men Order Banquet

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—Prison officials reported that Mrs. Elizabeth (Ma) Duncan ordered a routine last dinner before her scheduled execution today but her two condemned accomplices requested a huge final meal.

Mrs. Duncan asked for the traditional steak, fruit salad, hot rolls, pie or cake, and coffee. For breakfast she specified only toast and coffee.

Here's what Luis Moya, 23, and Augustine Baldonado, 28, ordered for their meal Tuesday night:

Shrimp sauté with Louis dressing, tomatoes, avocado, garlic bread, lobster thermidor, top sirloin steak, a dozen fried oysters, two dozen fried frog legs, baked potato with sour cream dressing, Mexican fried beans with cheese, dessert, beer (illegal) and cold soft drinks.

The two also ordered midnight snacks and large breakfast for execution day—and a down Alka Seltzer.

Prison officials said they would give Mrs. Duncan what she ordered, but said only that Moya and Baldonado would receive "good last meals."

The Kennedys Go to the Fair

SEATTLE (AP)—Robert Kennedy jumped up and down at the Seattle World's Fair Tuesday, clapped his hands and shouted:

"Hey, let's go on the wild mouse. Whad'ya say, let's go on the wild mouse."

"Gee, how old do you have to be to go on it?"

This Robert Kennedy is 8, his uncle and father both work for the government, uncle as president, father as attorney-general.

Bobby, his two brothers, his sister, and his cousin spent their time at the fair's gateway section while their elders toured the foreign exhibits and U.S. science pavilion.

Market Wavers

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market milled about in aimless fashion Tuesday, wavering between gains and losses before pulling slightly ahead near the close.

At one point, industries were down more than a point on index, but by day's end they showed a fractional advance.

Slight Gains

MONTREAL (CP)—Stocks moved slightly higher on the Montreal and Canadian exchanges Tuesday. Trading was active among industrials and moderate in mines.

Second Setback

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market slipped another notch lower Tuesday, as volume dwindled to the slowest pace since July 27.

The session about duplicated Monday's, making this the first time in two weeks that the market has registered two consecutive setbacks.

London Firm

LONDON (Reuters)—Stock markets were less buoyant here yesterday. Nevertheless, a firm tone was maintained, helped by a selective demand.

Industrials were firm but turnover remained small. Stores were in demand and recorded some useful gains. Selected engineering issues went ahead. Textiles were mainly higher.

Two Europes Parley Topic

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Business Editor

Suggestions of "two new Europes" were heard at last week's conference of the Canadian Institute on Public Affairs, whose topic was The New Europe.

The "new Europe" under discussion was that of the present six Common Market countries, with the implication that most other Western European countries will find an association of some kind with the present six.

Unemployed to Work For Their Benefits?

Premiers' Parley Closes

The premiers of Canada's provinces ended their third interprovincial conference Tuesday night and unanimously agreed the two-day talks had been of great advantage to all of them.

"We are all convinced," said Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec, chairman of this year's conference, "that our exchange of information, data and opinions will be to the great advantage of our governments and our people."

At their closing business session, the conference delegates:

1. Discussed a national power grid and concluded that whatever happens in the interprovincial exchange of electric power, each province should be responsible for ownership and management of the installations within the province.
2. Agreed that in making welfare assistance payments to the unemployed, it would be desirable to have the recipients required to work at going wage rates for their allowance.

Safe Landing

MONTREAL (UP)—A Trans-Canada Air Lines Vanguard, with 41 passengers on board, landed safely at Montreal International Airport last night after circling the field for one hour and 20 minutes.

GO DOORS

with Alec Merriman

This year it is possible to take the Coach Lines bus over the Elk River-Tahsis Co. road to Gold River, stay overnight at Gold River and catch a tye in the fabulous Gold River tye fishing grounds.

Jim Boulding, who operates Strathcona Lodge on Upper Campbell-Buttle Lake has beaten through the timber curtain which kept Gold River fishing the exclusive grounds of timber company employees and rich American yachtsmen who camped in the waters in floating palaces. No public access is allowed except by bus.

Boulding has managed to get a couple of waterfront acres at the mouth of the Gold River and three minutes by boat from the tye fishing grounds at the rock bluffs at the head of Murchison Inlet, just opposite the mouth of the Gold.

He has established a Gold River Tye Camp, which he operates on a reservation basis from Strathcona Lodge, which is 30 miles and one hour by bus from Gold River. It is 60 miles from Campbell River and buses leave Campbell River at 3 p.m. every day; Tuesday, Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday at 10:45 a.m.; Tuesday and Saturday at 5:30 a.m. and Sunday at 9 a.m.

Boulding has a fleet of rental aluminum boats powered with 15 and 18-horsepower outboards, plus a 24-foot flying bridge charter cabin cruiser, with sleeping accommodation, which three people may charter with guide at $33 each a day. His accommodation consists of cabin tenting (bring your own sleeping bags).

Indian guides, who know every inch of the Gold River tye grounds and the Murchison Inlet-Tahsis Inlet-Nootka Sound coho and spring salmon fishing waters, are available.

Accommodations are fairly primitive, the cost is not as cheap as other more readily accessible fishing spots, but when the tye run is on, and it should get in full swing any day now, an angler spends less money to get a fish than in most other places. Last year the average was one and one-half big spring salmon a rod, which Boulding claims is the highest ratio in the Pacific Northwest.

Last year 337 fish were landed in the Gold River-Burman River area and 113 of these were more than 30 pounds, with the average 19 pounds. The season is short. It hasn't really started yet and it is generally closed by the fisheries department the first week in September for conservation purposes. Only 12 tye have been weighed in so far, and these include a 35 and a 60-pounder landed by Indian-guide Sam Johnson and the 36-pounder landed by our fishing partner, Roger Spurling.

We figured the cheapest two people could make an overnight trip into the Gold River would be around $35 each, including cabin tent, meals at the Gold River restaurant, boat rental and bus fare from Campbell River, but no guide. The bus fare is less than half if you start at Strathcona Lodge, boat across to the other side of Upper Campbell Lake at the mouth of the Elk River, and catch the bus there.

We started from Strathcona Lodge and were met by Boulding at Gold River camp of the Tahsis Co., which is the end of the road.

First thing to do is to get a special salmon angling licence for the Murchison Inlet-Gold River area from fisheries officer Stan Sharcott, who ties up at the Gold River dock in his west coast troller Thornton Isle. Sharcott's wife Margaret, who is a regular contributor to the Colonist Islander magazine and author of the books Troller's Holiday and A Place of Many Winds, lives aboard the troller along with sons David, 9½, Leslie, 3, and dog Star. A visit with this family is a west coast fishing trip highlight.

Tye salmon limit in this area is three a day and at peak periods this is not too difficult to attain. There are only a few tye at the mouth of the Gold, although they are reported making their way down the Inlet off Danzig River area and should arrive at Gold River any day.

It was the first day of real operation of Boulding's Tye Camp and other guests included Col. Herman Crile of Mexico and Arizona, who is one of the world's top marlin fishermen; Paul Thomas of Phoenix, Arizona; Joe A. Schlapp of Bishop, Calif., and Keith Ford of South Gate, Calif., who had just returned from a successful Toba Inlet tye fishing trip.

Up until the time we left Monday night, only a jackspring had been landed by the group.

We were fishing with 15-year-old Bryan Snyder when Spurling hooked his fish, motor mooching off the rock bluffs. We had pretty well tried every combination in the book before taking to mooching and fisheries officer Sharcott said it was the first tye he had heard of being taken by mooching in those waters.

Sharcott checks and records statistics of all fish caught in the area and anglers must check in with him after each outing, whether or not they catch fish.

Lions Cut Three

VANCOUVER — Tom Larscheid, one of the all-time greats at Utah State, and Mack Burton, a versatile and much-sought speedster from San Jose State, yesterday learned that they are the two new halfbacks to be kept by B.C. Lions.

Anxious to get some help for Willie Fleming, the Lion's recruited five import halfbacks for this season and left coach Dave Skrien with the problem of picking two.

Paul Allan of Brigham Young University was the first to go. Yesterday, Skrien released Ted Woods of Colorado and Norris Stevenson of Missouri.

Larscheid is expected to line up with Fleming while Burton can be used as a flanker back, split end or defensive half.

Also released yesterday as the Lions sliced their roster to 34 players was Canadian-tackle George Grant.

Skrien has to cut one Canadian and one import before the Lions play their first league game, tomorrow at Vancouver against Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Says Coach About Lions

'We Feel We Are an Improved Team'

By JIM PEACOCK

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dave Skrien is an articulate young man not given to brush off.

Before he makes statements about the future fortunes of British Columbia Lions, he weighs each phrase carefully.

As a result, when he says the Lions will be a contender—a team capable of winning any game it plays—in the Western Football Conference, you can be sure that he sincerely believes it.

The 33-year-old Skrien (11 rhymes with fine), starting his first full year as Lions' head coach, says precisely that about the 1962 Lions.

"We think we've got a good football team and we feel we'll be a contender so far as the over-all league is concerned," he said when asked to sum up this year's possibilities for last year's league door-mats.

"We feel we're capable of winning any game we play."

Skrien's positive approach to the Lions' ninth season in the WFC has rubbed off on the players and there's talk here of a new team spirit, of an attitude of co-operation and pulling-together.

BLAME LACK OF SPIRIT

Lack of this spirit was blamed for many of the club's woes last year when former head coach Wayne Robinson was fired in mid-season and Skrien was promoted.

Cross-Canada on Mother's Thumb

VANCOUVER (CP)—A New South Wales woman has hitch-hiked across Canada with two of her children while her husband stayed home to baby-sit two other youngsters.

Mrs. Mary McKenna, 32, six-year-old Stephen and Margaret, 4, used their thumbs to make the 4,800-mile trip from Digby, N.S. to Vancouver.

And they plan to thumb their way back after visiting relatives in Salmon Arm, B.C., where Mrs. McKenna was born.

The trip cost Mrs. McKenna $125 for accommodation, meals and souvenirs.

Mrs. McKenna said she decided to hitch-hike because she thought it would be more interesting than travelling by conventional means.

"I knew we'd meet a lot of interesting people along the way, and I thought it would be educational for the children," she said.

"They enjoyed it but I think it would have been better if they were a little older," she said.

She said her husband Frank, at home looking after the other McKenna children, Anne, 3, and Maureen, 18 months, wasn't worried about them because he's done a lot of thumbing himself.

New Hall Needed

The need for a new municipal hall will be brought before Saanich council Aug. 20 by finance committee chairman, Coun. Joseph Casey.

Coun. Casey has long been booster of a proposal to build a new hall on municipally-owned property off Douglas Street at Vernon Avenue.

Saanich's new police headquarters building has already been built there, and a health and welfare building conforming in appearance and siting will soon be constructed nearby.

Ferries Set Record

Ferries brought almost 21,000 cars and nearly 80,000 people to Vancouver Island in July according to figures released yesterday by the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau. This is more than 7,000 cars and 30,000 people better than in July, 1961.

Of this July's crop, almost 19,000 cars and 70,000 people came from the United States and other foreign countries. So far this year, almost 45,500 cars and 164,000 people have come to the island, up about 18,500 cars and 76,500 people from last year. Almost 40,000 cars and 143,000 people have come to the island this year from countries other than Canada.

Water Bomber Task Force Ready in 1963

By ED COSEBROVE

A fleet of six former RCAF Search and Rescue Canoe amphibians are being groomed to make up a highly-mobile task force of water bombers that will lead the aerial attack on B.C. forest fires next year.

Successful water drops of one of the six—the second to be converted to its new role—was carried out early this week at Patricia Bay.

A BOLD STEP

The planes—which will be based at strategic locations throughout the province during the fire season—represent a bold step by Vancouver and Calgary businessmen in creation of an air fleet of heavy planes capable of carrying big payloads.

Plans call for basing three planes at Patricia Bay and three at McCall Field, Calgary.

MAIN MARKET

And while the three Alberta-based planes will be available for fire fighting in both that province and neighboring Montana, main market for their services is expected to be B.C.'s interior forests.

"Water bombers, like ambulances, recognize no international boundaries," said Calgary lawyer M. A. Mearns, president of Cal-Air Services Ltd., and that company's B.C. subsidiary, National Air Tankers Ltd.

TWO CONVERTED

Two Canoes of the fleet have already been converted and are now operational but future conversions of four more of the venerable flying boats, which for 30 years were the mainstay of RCAF search and rescue operations, calls for fitting them with heavier, Wright Cyclone engines.

The heavier engine will mean a payload boost from the present 800 gallons of water to close to 1,700 gallons, plus an increase in speed from 125 to 190 miles an hour.

TORONTO, SIDNEY

Initial conversions of the planes were carried out at Toronto and further refinements were made by Fairley Aviation at Sidney, said Mr. Mearns. The two planes now operational represent a value of $75,000 each, he said. The remaining four, with the heavier engines, will be valued at about $100,000.

CONRAD WATLING

City Senate Unwanted

Suggestion by former Victoria mayor Claude Harrison that ex-members of council comprise an unofficial city "senate" isn't likely to gain much support from city hall. Mayor R. E. Wilson said yesterday he thought such a move would "merely add to the confusion."

City Sleuth Plays Key Role

By JACK FREY

A Washington State family caught up in property feuds and trouble with the authorities will "start a new life in peaceful surroundings in Victoria."

A Victoria police investigator played a key role in solving the mysterious disappearance of the family of seven and the burning of their home near Eatonville, Wash.

Missing after their farm home burned July 27, and object of a wide international search by police throughout the Pacific Northwest were Gilbert J. Hostar, his wife and five children.

THE ONLY PERSON

Conrad Watling, manager of National Investigation Agency here, was the only person who knew for certain that Mrs. Hostar and her children were in Victoria.

Police had traced them to Victoria but were given to understand by other sources they had returned to the United States.

Mr. Hostar disappeared from the Eatonville area after fire engulfed the family home, a smaller house, a truck and the family's personal possessions piled in a heap in the yard.

FAMILY WORKED

Police wanted the whole family for questioning in connection with the fire. Relatives of Mrs. Hostar in Vancouver and Nanaimo were pressing police to find out whether the family was still alive.

The mystery heightened when detective Watling walked into the Tacoma office of Sheriff Frank Stojack, introduced himself as a private investigator from Canada and stated he had "certain intimate facts about the family."

MYSTERY MAN

Sheriff Stojack went into conference with Mr. Watling, refused to reveal the mystery man's identity or mission to local newsmen.

The daily Tacoma News Tribune subsequently carried banner front page headlines: "Private Eye Probe Becleouds Strange Eatonville Fire-Disappearance Case."

Watling brought a deputy sheriff back to Victoria for a rendezvous at the airport with Mrs. Hostar and the children, to establish they were here and well. A search for these six members of the family was subsequently called off.

Other mysteries were then cleared up.

PLEADED GUILTY

Gilbert Hostar surrendered to the police Friday, pleaded guilty Monday to second-degree arson. He was freed yesterday to rejoin his family in Victoria and is expected to arrive here today.

Prosecutor John McCutcheon recommended Hostar be released on his personal recognizance after being assured the man would return for sentencing.

PROBATION LIKELY

"It would appear this is a case where the prosecution will recommend probation," said McCutcheon.

Investigator Watling is expected to arrive home today from Tacoma.

It is understood he was hired by Mrs. Hostar to find her husband, after things went amiss back at the farm. The Hostars had decided to demolish their home and sell the remains along with their 123-acre farm after being involved in a civil action with neighbors over access to the property.

DECISION ON GATE

Decision was taken after a court ruling that a gate leading to their property was to be maintained and only the family could gain entry through it, it is believed.

Mrs. Hostar and the family were to wait in Victoria and be joined by the husband after the demolition. Apparently difficulty was encountered in getting the buildings demolished, teaching off the fire episode, and mysterious disappearance which brought so much publicity to the Hostar family.

'Police to Blame For Slow Traffic'

City police traffic branch is to blame for sluggish movement of traffic downtown, motor vehicles branch superintendent George Lindsay said yesterday.

He pointed a finger at the police department while commenting on a letter sent to city streets and traffic committee by the Victoria branch of the B.C. Automobile Association.

HUG CENTRE LINE

The BCAA was critical of drivers who hug the white centre line preventing other cars from passing and those who drive so slowly that traffic piles up in a long column behind them.

"It's a matter of enforcement, education and courtesy. City police motorcycle patrolmen should ride up alongside these little white ribboners and ask them to move over to the right," said Mr. Lindsay.

SHOULD TIGHTEN UP

He said police should also tighten up on drivers who ease into an intersection and stop there, blocking all other traffic from using the intersection. "What would happen if an emergency car would have to get through there in a hurry?" he asked.

Monkey Takes Stroll

A motorist on Interurban Road last night thought he had driven a little too far south when he saw a monkey stroll casually across the road.

After staring for a few moments in disbelief the unidentified driver galed at the home of Earl Antonson, 4850 Elk Road, said there was a monkey nearby and took off.

The monkey was lured into the Antonson home. "He was somebody's pet all right—real friendly," said Mr. Antonson. He left him in the rampas room.

After a few hours the monkey pulled up the window and left.

Tough New Zealand Tree Recalls City's Hospitality

A New Zealand pohutukawa tree was planted at Government House yesterday to commemorate Victoria's wartime hospitality.

The two-foot baby plant is the gift of members of the New Zealand Air Force Association who trained on Vancouver Island under the Empire Training Scheme during the Second World War.

In presenting the gift to Lieutenant Governor George Pearkes, New Zealand high commissioner to Canada J. S. Reid said his countrymen "have always regarded the west coast as the part of Canada we enjoy most, probably because it is somewhat like home."

Mr. Reid expressed his great appreciation for the reception Victoria was giving the visiting cruiser HMNZS Royalist.

"I am particularly happy that so many homes have been opened to members of the crew," he said.

TOUGH TREE

The pohutukawa, a member of the metrosideros tomentosa family, is reported to be the toughest tree in New Zealand.

Capt. J. O. Ross of HMNZS Royalist helped Mr. Reid plant the tree while a number of the ship's 36 officers looked on.

RECEPTIONS

Monday night they were guests at a civic reception at the Union Club. Mayor R. E. Wilson presented the Royalist with a mounted, continental dollar and a miniature chaser light.

The ship returned the favor last night when guests aboard ship included Centennial Queen Carol Ann-Howay and her princesses.

RCN WINNERS

The RCN narrowly defeated marksmen from Royalist in a 22 shooting match yesterday afternoon was 558 to 532.

The New Zealanders were also defeated by their Canadian counterparts 15-3 at water polo.

On tap today are a softball game at 2:30 and a basketball encounter at 4:15, both at Naden; a reception for offi-

Gas Station Vote Today

Saanich gasoline station and garage operators vote today on whether they want the privilege of staying open until midnight daily.

Forty-five operators in the municipality will cast secret ballots at the municipal hall from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Under provincial law, if the majority votes "yes" they can continue to set their own closing hours. If they vote "no," closing time will revert to 9 p.m., and those wanting to stay open longer will have to ask council for 9 p.m. summer and 7 p.m. winter extensions.

Lost Pills 'Lethal'

City police warned last night a jacket stolen from Beacon Hill Park contained a quantity of orange-colored pills that could be "lethal if taken in quantity."

The pills were carried in an old headache tablet box. It is not known what drug they contained.

Owner of the black plastic jacket is Lee Neville, 12, a visitor from Alberta staying at 2516 Cook Street.

HEARD HEARNS

"They were trying to rouse him... we heard the sirens and saw the flames through our window... it almost spread to our cabin," said Mr. Neilson.

SON HAD LEFT

His son had left earlier to spend the night with a sister who lives at a trailer park nearby. Mr. Matthews had lived at the motel since moving here from Kamloops three years ago.

Crippled Veteran Burns to Death

Neighbor Tom Nelson points to chair in which fire victim, 80-year-old John Matthews, is believed to have slept as he burned to death in Colwood motel cabin yesterday. Mr. Matthews was alone in cabin at time of fire. A smouldering cigarette is blamed.—(Robin Clarke photo.)

Smouldering tobacco ashes are believed to have sparked a fire that ripped through a Colwood motel cabin yesterday, killing its aged occupant.

Dead is John Matthews, 80, a crippled veteran of two wars, whose badly burned body was found sprawled on the floor of the two-room cabin only three feet from safety.

It is believed the man was overcome by smoke before the flames reached him.

Mr. Matthews, who lived with his son, Charles, in the tiny cabin at Belmont Auto Court, Trans-Canada Highway, was alone when the fire started at 4 a.m.

A neighbor in an adjoining cabin gave the alarm. Twenty Colwood volunteer firemen battled the blaze for more than an hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Nelson, occupants of a neighboring cabin, said they were awakened by the sound of someone hammering on Mr. Matthews's door.

"They were trying to rouse him... we heard the sirens and saw the flames through our window... it almost spread to our cabin," said Mr. Neilson.

Mr. Matthews were a brace on his left leg as a result of a First World War wound. Firemen said he was evidently sitting in an easy chair near the stove when the fire started. They said the stove was not lit.

His son had left earlier to spend the night with a sister who lives at a trailer park nearby. Mr. Matthews had lived at the motel since moving here from Kamloops three years ago.

Deputy coroner Edmund J. de St. Pierre said an inquiry will be held into the death.

Fewer Buyers Attend Shows

ROME (Reuters)—Does the Italian fashion world know where it is going? Is it publicizing gimmicks to keep itself afloat? Is there any future for the industry?

These are some of the questions being asked here following the recent Florence fashion shows for autumn and winter. The shows disclosed no over-all trends and were attended by representatives of only 87 foreign firms, compared with more than 400 last year.

Some Italian-fashion houses have even deserted Florence and are showing in Paris.

But Italian fashion circles still claim that theirs is a live industry with a future and maintain that they have been getting unfavorable publicity in the foreign press.

Gimmicks there certainly were in Florence. Among them were such things as five-inch-high platform sandals for the beach and hopelessly impracticable stockings encrusted with imitation jewels on the toes and heels and even all the way up to the knee.

But whatever the future of Italian high fashion, there is still plenty in the women's

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Our house is so full of sadness you'd think somebody died. The reason? My brother didn't get into Harvard. Bud received the letter this morning and my mother went completely to pieces. Dad came home from the office early and he's in pretty bad shape, too. You see, HE went to Harvard and so did my grandfather. I feel worse for my brother than anyone. He stayed in his room all evening—wouldn't even come down for dinner.

Bud is a good student and an all-around athlete. He didn't want to go to Harvard in the first place but my dad made him feel no other school would do. He was offered a scholarship to a small college in Ohio but my folks made him turn it down. Now I don't know what he'll do. He talks as if he might forget about college for now and go right into the service.

Please tell me why parents put so much pressure on their children to go to certain schools? Some of my friends are nervous wrecks over this. It all seems very unfair.—SAD SISTER

Dear Sister: This misguided parental preoccupation with "certain schools" is a combination of snob appeal and the desire of parents to relieve their youth through their children.

Harvard is an excellent school, but there are many excellent schools and it may well be that the smaller college in Ohio would have been better than Harvard for your brother.

Anxiety and tension among high school students is great these days and I have a hunch the drive to get into "name" schools is a major factor. Almost without exception the parents are doing the pushing. This can be painful and damaging to the student who does his best but can't make the grade. I hope these parents who are wildly ambitious for their children will see this and lay off.

Dear Ann: My husband is 34. I'm 28. We have four children. I keep myself as attractive as I can on a limited income. Our home is pleasant and quiet considering the youngsters. I'm a good cook and no nagger.

For the last three months my husband has been spending more and more time away from home. Every Saturday afternoon he leaves and doesn't come back till dawn on Sunday. Then he leaves again on Sunday afternoon and comes home Monday morning in time to go to work. I have no idea where he goes or what he does. He drinks a little but is never drunk. He never spends more than $10 on a weekend. I have no reason to suspect another woman although it's the first thing that came to my mind.

I've raised the roof but it did no good. I've talked to him quietly—no results. Now that I am silent he probably thinks I've accepted it as normal behavior. His only explanation is "I want to be by myself." The mystery is driving me crazy. What should I do.—CHIATTANOOGA.

Dear Chiattanooga: A wife has a right to know where her husband is at all times. Tell him that either he lets you know where he is losing these weekends or he can "be by himself" all the time. In other words, put the pressure on HIM—which is where it belongs.

IN TRAINING Ten women from Nanaimo will attend the CWAC training camp at Camp Wainwright, Alta., from Aug. 19 to Sept. 1. In addition to the regular courses a new one is being presented this year, for filter centric operator.

Blast Mishap 'Just as Well'

A heavy floodgate accidentally dropped shut Friday during the big twin explosions at Horne Lake, trapping masses of silt in the tunnel system designed to carry controlled-temperature water from the lake to Big Qualicum River, it was disclosed yesterday.

But Charles Clay, chief engineer on the Canadian fisheries department project, last night said it may be just as well the mishap occurred.

The silt now will have to be excavated from the tunnel system but the river is free of the silt which was to have been flushed right through the tunnel system into it.

LIKE WINDOW

The gate, which moves up and down like a window, was being held open by a makeshift arrangement consisting of cables attached to a steel beam across the top of an uncompleted vertical shaft.

"When the first explosion went, we could see the beam vibrating up and down," Mr. Clay said last night. "When the dust and smoke from the second explosion cleared, the beam wasn't there any more."

The gate is to close off, when desired, flow from the vertical shaft into a 1,700-foot, 14 x 14 m tunnel efficiency as a spawning ground for salmon.

ing to the river. The gate is eventually to be operated by machinery.

Into the vertical shaft comes water from Horne Lake, through two tunnels, and a surface intake channel, each of which draws water from the lake at a different depth. Friday's twin explosion was to blast rock plugs from the entrances to the two tunnels.

MIXED WATER

The proportion of water entering the vertical tunnel from each of the three tunnels is to be controlled, thereby controlling the temperature of the mixed water which goes out the 1,700-foot tunnel into Big Qualicum River.

The fisheries department plans by means of the tunnel system and other parts of the project to control the amount and temperature of water in the river and thus give it spawning ground for salmon.

Rain Foils Rescue Of Students

CAMPBELL RIVER — A midsummer downpour continued to pound down on mountainous Forbidden Plateau country yesterday, forcing postponement of an attempt to airlift three students out of the area.

A float-equipped B.C. Airline plane will make another attempt at rescue of the trio today.

They were flown into the area last Tuesday to collect plant and animal specimens for Victoria University.

ATTEMPT FOILED

They were flown into the area last Tuesday to collect plant and animal specimens for Victoria University.

The students are Rad Addison, of Nanaimo, and Joan Hett, of Victoria, who both attend Victoria University, and Roseann Millin, a Victoria girl studying medicine at McGill University.

NO PROBLEMS

They have been in contact by radio with the airlines office here and reported they had food and no problems.

Moat Lake is about 18 miles due west of Courtenay at an altitude of 1,500 feet.

The storm slowed more than three inches of rain on recording stations at the John Hart Dam and Strathcona.

Salute Gives Victorians View of Navy in Action

Victorians will have ample opportunity to see their navy in action Thursday, Friday and Saturday when the RCN presents its Salute to Victoria.

Canada's senior service will show itself in simulated battle action during an air-sea anti-submarine exercise, in recreation during daily physical training displays, in concert featuring the band of HMCS Naden and at its ceremonial best during colorful and historical shore ceremonies.

SHIPS BUSY

Four St. Laurent class destroyer-escorts, four minesweepers, the submarine Grise and naval aircraft will take part in the anti-submarine manoeuvres off Finlayson Point Saturday from 2 to 3 p.m.

Naval apprentices, accompanied by the band of HMCS Naden, will hop to it to show how the navy keeps fit at 4 p.m. Thursday, 7:45 p.m. Friday and 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

The navy band will play at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, 7 p.m. Friday and 5 p.m. Saturday.

NIGHTLY CEREMONIES

The split-second timing, precision movements and symbolic manoeuvres of the sunset ceremony will be featured at 9 each night.

All activity will centre on the Finlayson Point area of the Beacon Hill Park waterfront.

Collectors Comb City for Coins

Who said Victorians hang on to their money?

Certainly not two American coin collectors who have just finished a week-long buying trip here.

They placed an ad in the Colonist outlining coins they were willing to purchase at prices far in excess of their face value and sat back to await the onslaught.

"The response has been tremendous," said Douglas McDonald, a sophomore at the University of Washington. "We've been so busy we hardly had time to answer the door for the next customer."

Mr. McDonald and his partner, Gene Henry, also a college sophomore, have worked together collecting coins for three years.

They plan to spend a year or two away from college to open a full-time business—Coin Galleries of Seattle.

"Most people who have coins are glad to sell them for a price over their face value," explained Mr. McDonald. "We advertise base prices but it's really the condition of a coin that determines its value."

The two collectors have found Victoria a rich source of rare coins.

"We've bought some U.S. and Canadian gold, early English silver and copper—possibly 300 or 400 years old—and a rare gold stater of Alexander the Great dated 323 B.C.," said Mr. McDonald.

Most of the coins collected here will be resold by the two young men, but some will go into their own personal collections.

Chief customers of the Seattle numismatists are their counterparts in the Eastern U.S. who pay more for coins because of the concentration of collectors in that area, and collectors themselves who will buy rare coins for their personal collections.

Mounties Arrive Today

Members of the RCMP musical ride arrive in Victoria today at 6:10 p.m. on the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railroad. Their horses arrive tomorrow. They will parade to City Hall at 11 a.m. Friday to be greeted by Mayor R. B. Wilson and will perform at Royal Athletic Park Aug. 11 to 18.

park, special refreshment tickets will be sold along Douglas and Cook Streets near Dallas Road. Coupons will be exchangeable for food being featured in the park.

PARADE THURSDAY

The program calls for three days crammed with activity.

Salute to Victoria will start at 2 p.m. Thursday when bands, floats and naval contingents parade from Quebec Street to Beacon Hill Park via Menzies, Belleville, Government, Pandora, Blanshard, Yates and Douglas to Dallas Road.

Opening ceremonies will be held at 3:30 p.m. at the park. Each day dozens of interesting displays will show the work done by the RCN with personnel available at each exhibit to answer questions.

Sea Cadets will present a display of smart manoeuvres and precision timing during a field gun competition Thursday at 4:30, Friday at 2:30, and Saturday at 3 p.m.

MAORI DANCERS

New Zealand Maori dancers from HMNZS Royalist will perform Thursday at 5, Friday at 4, and Saturday at 7:15 p.m. Navy frogmen will demonstrate undersea operations Thursday at 6:15, Friday at 6:30 and Saturday at 4 p.m.

Go-carts will go-go-go in a lively show with a navy flavor Friday and Saturday at 3:30.

GRAND FINALE

As a grand finale Saturday night units of the fleet will be outlined in lights off Beacon Hill Park starting at 9:30. Fireworks will burst into the sky from 9:45 to 10.

Children will be especially privileged during Salute to Victoria. As sailors of the day they will cruise the Strait of Juan de Fuca on board destroyer-escorts at 9:30 each morning as guests of the navy. An extra cruise will sail Friday at 1:45 p.m.

CRUISE TICKETS

Special B.C. Hydro buses will leave from Memorial Arena at 8:40 a.m. each morning and 1:10 p.m. Friday only.

Tickets are still available to children 12 to 16 for Friday and Saturday cruises at the navy booth at the corner of Douglas and Yates Streets.

Financial Aid Not Likely For Quads

B.C. welfare officials said here yesterday they knew of no plans to provide special financial assistance for the parents of Vancouver quadriplegics.

Alan Becker said earlier he and his wife had not received even a word of official recognition after the birth last Friday of their two boys and two girls.

Officials here said the government may send congratulations — but financial assistance is unlikely.

Clouded Out

Overcast weather Monday prevented at least 15 interested Victoria people from scanning the skies after the second weekly lecture in the "Summer Evenings with the Stars" series.

The Bay invites you to a Centennial Exhibit of British Columbia's Heritage of Native Arts featuring Haida Argillite Carvings loaned by Mr. D. MacAlister and an exhibition of paintings by Miss Geneva Lent

August 8th to August 25th
in the Bay's
Douglas Room, 3rd Floor

Miss D. Geneva Lent

Inheriting a strong family interest in Indian history, her paintings represent years of sketches and observations made in England and America's most important collections and libraries as well as our own Provincial Museum and Archives. Here are the most fascinating aspects of Indian culture portrayed by a very talented artist.

Haida Argillite Carvings

Encouraged by explorers and curious traders, this finely grained dark slate has been carved by the Haida Indians since 1820, and has stimulated Haida Indian legends and artistry by providing a permanent record of native art which has greatly added to our province's heritage.

'Ma' Still Hopes

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UPI) — Grey-haired Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Duncan clung to hope last night that her son, husband of the woman slain at "Ma" Duncan's order, would save her from death today in the San Quentin gas chamber.

Mrs. Duncan's attorneys, including her son Frank, were turned down Tuesday in petitions to the U.S. Supreme Court and to the U.S. District Court in Los Angeles but planned to carry the fight to the last possible minute. (See Page 6.)

A prison official said Mrs. Duncan, 58, appeared to be "in a dream world" as she arrived at San Quentin from the state prison for women at Corona in southern California. She is scheduled for execution at 10 a.m.

U.K. Stands On Parley For Fall

LONDON (CP) — The British government apparently has no intention of changing its plans for the prime ministers' conference here Sept. 10 despite a suggestion from the deputy Labour leader that it be postponed. Some observers suggest that the government now that the initial disappointment over the deadlocked Common Market talks has ebbed a bit is growing hopeful that much can be accomplished, although there will be no firm outline of market membership terms to put before the Commonwealth leaders.

Blast Blaze Flickers Out

MAPLE, Ont. (CP) — Flames blazing since Saturday night in the shambles of an explosion-torn propane gas plant flickered out Tuesday night, but firemen said one 30,000-gallon tank was still dangerously hot. With about 24 families barred from their neighborhood homes for fear of further blasts, firemen were spraying the red-hot tank with water to cool it down.

Berlin Pigeon Fans Foil 'Flying Death' Operation

BERLIN (UPI) — The pigeons came out on top Tuesday as the East-West Berlin conflict temporarily gave way to a feather-weight battle. After months of planning and argument with animal protection societies, the West Berlin city government sent out flying squads of police and technicians at dawn Tuesday on "Operation Pigeon Death."

The squads were to scatter

'Miracle Operations' Old Hat

VANCOUVER (CP) — Today's "miracle operations" in which severed limbs are sewn back on are old hat to Albert Wannop, 68.

He saw the same thing happen on his kitchen table in 1937.

Mr. Wannop said in an interview he was moving hay on his farm 14 miles west of Champion, Alta., when he ran over his son James, about 3. He said his son's foot was severed at the ankle and the foot, he thinks it was the right, was dangling by one cord.

He rushed his son to the house about a mile away and, phoned Dr. Edwin H. Freeze at Champion. Dr. Freeze was at the house in 15 minutes.

"He sewed the severed limb back in place as best he could, put on a splint, and took him (the boy) 80 miles to Calgary. "When he got to the hospital the doctor there said the job was no good he couldn't improve on it."

The foot was put in a cast. It took six months before James, now a United Church minister at Ashmont, 120 miles northeast of Edmonton, could walk. He now only has a slight limp. A. J. D. Hagerman of Calgary, a former member of the Champion council, Tuesday night said he remembered the operation.

"It was more than a miracle," said Mr. Wannop who left his farm 20 years ago and moved to Vancouver.

His Hand Replaced Long Ago

CALGARY (CP) — Forty-year-old Bud Toner, a Calgary painter, flexed the hand and wrist that were sewn back on his arm 36 years ago by a country doctor whose name has been forgotten, and said:

"The doctor told mom and dad the wrist and hand would always be stiff, but look now..."

The incident of the severed limb which was sewn back on by a Saskatchewan doctor in 1926 was recalled as the medical spotlight focused on recent rare operations which have rejoined severed limbs.

FOR THE RECORD

"I'm tickled pink to hear Calgary doctors have sewn back on Hazel Donlin's arm and that boy's arm in Boston, but for the record I think that Saskatchewan doctor who lacked Bud's wrist to his body should be mentioned," said Bud's father, Mark Toner.

The doctor is remembered only as "Dr. George" — the Toners are not sure whether it was his surname or his Christian name — but the details of the accident and the operation are well remembered.

ASLEEP IN FIELD

Bud, three years old, was asleep in a field of rye on the family's farm near Harris, Sask., 45 miles southwest of Saskatoon. His mother, driving a binder, did not see the boy among the tall stalks. She heard a little scream and found Bud writhing on the ground behind the machine.

A silver of skin held hand and wrist to arm. His leg was broken in two places.

Surgeons Hope For Success

CHICAGO (AP) — Three surgeons were guardedly optimistic yesterday as to the condition of a 41-year-old bindery worker whose severed right hand was rejoined to his arm at the wrist in a rare operation.

Testing Race Looming Up

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

An intensified testing race, multiplying the risks and dangers of accidental nuclear war, may be in the making between Russia and the United States if test ban negotiations at Geneva, no progress is made in current test ban negotiations at Geneva. The U.S. has indicated willingness to modify its position on international inspection and control as part of renewed negotiations with Russia for a permanent ban on all nuclear testing.

There is ground for suggesting, in the event that all current efforts to work out a complete test ban fail, that there might at least be a way open to ending atmospheric tests, leaving the nuclear powers free to underground tests and their lesser fallout. The U.S. might agree to an East-West moratorium on air tests if Russia would join in the pledge.

In other words, the U.S. is prepared to go a long way from its previous fixed position in order to work out an agreement that might provide a significant first step in turning humanity's dream of disarmament into reality.

RESPONSE COOL

But Russia remains cool. The initial Soviet reaction is that the new American position does not offer any great hope for cracking the East-West stalemate.

Russia wants a nuclear test ban to be based solely on national inspection systems, with no foreign inspection on her soil.

FOOLPROOF EVIDENCE

U.S. authorities argue it may be comparatively easy to police an atmospheric nuclear ban through improved detection systems. But while these systems may provide a way of reducing the number of on-site inspections, they would not eliminate entirely the need for such inspections.

Reds Pour In

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The landing of more than 4,000 Russian soldiers in Cuba was claimed Tuesday night in a Spanish language broadcast of Miami radio station WMTB.

It's mighty like a pony, sighs Harry Cousins of 3981 Borden while he examines the colt from his pony Cherokee which he had bred by a donkey. As any donkey knows, a donkey and a horse make a mule, and Mr. Cousins had been hoping for a pony-size pinto—two-colored—mule. The colt is pinto, like Cherokee, but doesn't look like a mule. Cherokee was in seclusion for three weeks after the breeding and assuming the donkey was sire—Mr. Cousins thinks anything else is improbable—the colt was born 10 days late.—(Colonist photo.)

Bedside Ceremony For New Cabinet

OTTAWA (CP) — For the first time in Canadian history new members of the cabinet are to be sworn in at the prime minister's home instead of the governor-general's residence.

Because of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's ankle injury, Thursday's noon swearing-in ceremony will take place in his house at 24 Sussex Drive.

Reversing the usual procedure, Governor-General Vanier will cross the street from Rideau Hall to receive the new ministers. The actual swearing-in is done by Robert Bryce, clerk of the Privy Council.

The present cabinet is to meet at 10:30 a.m. today at the prime minister's residence at which time he may inform his ministers of the appointments he plans.

Five vacancies were created in the 24-member cabinet by the June 18 general election.

40-Footer Completes Ocean Trip

MONTREAL (CP) — Two of five adventurous Britons who sailed 3,000 miles across the Atlantic in a 40-foot boat arrived in Montreal Tuesday.

They came by plane from Sept-les, 400 miles down the St. Lawrence, where they landed last Sunday. Their companions will sail the boat to Montreal.

The five — two of them non-residents of Vancouver — left Aberdeen, Scotland, July 4 in a sailboat converted from an old fishing boat. It also carried a 44-horsepower diesel motor as an aid to sail.

On the Atlantic crossing they battled two 24-hour gales and heavy fogs and ate codfish caught to augment their canned-food diet.

Timber Lord Finds Fund

VANCOUVER (CP) — H. R. MacMillan, British Columbia timber magnate, has established a $2,000,000 trust fund for education and welfare.

Britons Storm Nazi Camp

LONDON (CP) — Angry villagers Tuesday night stormed past cudgel-swinging guards to break up a Nazi camp in the English countryside.

But the raiding party from the village of Gilling Power in Gloucestershire found no trace of George Lincoln Rockwell, the self-styled American Fuehrer who earlier Tuesday was ordered deported from Britain. Scotland Yard has been told to look for Rockwell, who spent the weekend at the camp.

TENTS TORN DOWN

Led by five stalwarts from the Farmer's Arms, the local village pub, 100 men and women tore down tents, stamped out camp fires and put the jack-booted Nazi sympathizers to flight.

A shotgun blast tore out the centre of a swastika flag which fluttered above the rally, organized by Colin Jordan's British National Socialist Movement.

FREE TO WOODS

With the tents down and their contents strewn over the field, about 50 campers grabbed what belongings they could find and fled into surrounding woods and fields.

Local farmers, scuffled on the ground with campers wearing uniforms of grey shirts, shorts and leather belts. A number of foreign delegates to the rally were beaten up.

Jordan's righthand man, John Tyndall, was punched in the face. Jordan stood away from the scuffle but fiercely argued his party's case.

'RID OF JEWS'

"We want to get rid of the Jews," he roared. As he spoke, his tattered swastika flag was torn down and carried off as a battle trophy.

Advisory Council Studied

Formation of a Canadian national economic advisory council will be discussed in the near future in Ottawa and provincial capitals across the country.

Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba was requested by the third conference of provincial premiers which ended yesterday in Victoria to detail his suggestions for setting up such a body.

His memorandum will be supplied to all the provincial premiers and Prime Minister Diefenbaker for study by their governments.

Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec, chairman of the two-day conference of premiers, told reporters the provinces would continue to study the proposal in the light of information contained in the memorandum.

"We have reached no conclusion here," said Premier Lesage. "This was simply a first exploratory move."

Quebec Fears Termed Just

Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec said in Victoria the people of his province are justly uneasy because of the tendencies they perceive today in the development of the federal system of government.

The federal machinery, he said Tuesday night, has been misused in the course of Canada's history, either for administrative convenience or because of emergency such as war.

"The central government has assumed numerous responsibilities, which constitutionally belong to the provinces," the Quebec premier said.

STARK LETTER

No one could expect a return to the strict letter of Canada's constitution because of social and economic change, but the federal form of government must be reoriented to give proper apportionment of powers at the various levels of administration.

Mr. Lesage was addressing the closing dinner of the third provincial premiers' conference here and the leaders of government in Canada's 10 provinces were in his audience.

Mr. Lesage said discussions going on today in Quebec regarding Confederation and the position of French-Canadian Quebec in it are not new but are more widespread than in the past because the people there have developed considerably.

"They now feel that they can play a bigger part in the life of our country," he said.

Just Wait Till Next Year Says Flying Daredevil

LETHBRIDGE (CP) — A man who flew aloft briefly — in a parachute at the end of a tow rope, squinted through a black eye from his hospital bed and said: "I don't think I'll try it over land again."

The airborne adventure of George Sinclair, 38, of Coaldale, Alta., landed him in hospital with a broken pelvis, black eye and skinned arms.

"My career is ended for this year," he said dejectedly. "But watch out next year."

The parachute flip Sunday which saw him soaring up to 20 feet above the earth was just another in a series of daredevil escapades for the Coaldale fireman.

The day before the accident, George was soaring around the Coaldale ball park. But he had made most of his flights over water, at the end of a tow rope.

"You feel light as a feather up there. Real nice. It's a great sensation," he said.

His Sunday flight plan called for a friend, Edward Smith, of Lethbridge, to drive a car with George and his parachute in tow.

As the tow rope tightened, George began running, his specially designed parachute trailing. He leaped into the air at about 10 m.p.h. Nothing happened.

He ran a little more, leaped again and this time the wind hit the open chute. In his rear view mirror, Ed could see

George's feet dangling. Then Ed wondered: "Where did George go? He's not up there where he should be."

He found the parachutist piled up on the ground. He gave mouth-to-mouth artificial respiration. Then the ambulance took the low-flying aviator to hospital.

George said he remembered nothing after a hook on the parachute harness broke. He recalled floating like a bird, then waking up in hospital.

The parachute mishap probably means no more water sliding—without aids—this year. He likes to bounce along behind a low boat, sitting on a kitchen stool mounted on a couple of

Scientist's Prediction

More Efficient When Frustrated?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If you think life is frustrating now, have a look at what one University of Southern California psychologist has in mind for the future.

Dr. Langdon E. Longstreth believes humans may become more efficient when frustrated.

He says, and he has built a machine to prove his theory with humans.

"It's possible we might be able to notice a little frustration into some of the assembly line chores — such as lifting widgets A into slot B — and increase the efficiency of the operators and hence the whole production line," Dr. Longstreth says.

His machine consists of a seat for the subject and some lights which the subject turns on and off with a lever. Dr. Longstreth has built in some bony traps.

Just when you think you have learned that bright lights are always turned off by a right turn on the lever and the dim lights are turned off by a left turn, something happens. The gadget doesn't work that way anymore.

"When you frustrate a laboratory rat with a simple problem involving food as his reward," Dr. Longstreth says in a report on his experiment released by the school, "he will move through the problem twice as fast on the next try."

"It is our hope that, with the apparatus, we'll be able to prove the same point with humans."

Cross-Canada on Mother's Thumb

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Nova Scotia woman has hitch-hiked N.S. to Vancouver. And she plans to thumb her way back after visiting relatives in Salmon Arm, B.C., where Mrs. McKenna was born. The trip west cost Mrs. McKenna $125 for accommodation, meals and souvenirs.

Mrs. McKenna said she decided to hitch-hike because she thought it would be more interesting than travelling by conventional means. "I knew we'd meet a lot of interesting people along the way, and I thought it would be educational for the children," she said.

"They enjoyed it but I think it would have been better if they were a little older," she said. Her husband Frank is at home looking after the other McKenna children, Anne, 3, and Maurice, 10 months. Mrs. McKenna worried about them because he's done a lot of thumbing himself.

New Hall Needed

The need for a new municipal hall will be brought before Nanaimo council Aug. 20 by finance committee chairman, Councillor Joseph Cussey.

Cussey has long been a proponent of a proposal to build a new hall on municipally-owned property off Douglas Street at Vernon Avenue.

Nanaimo's new police-fire headquarters building has already been built there, and a health and welfare building conforming in appearance and siting will soon be constructed nearby.

Ferries Set Record

Ferries brought almost 31,500 cars and nearly 20,000 people to Vancouver Island in July according to figures released yesterday by the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau. This is more than 7,000 cars and 20,000 people better than in July, 1961.

Of this July's crop, almost 19,000 cars and 70,000 people came from the United States and other foreign countries. So far this year, almost 45,500 cars and 164,000 people have come to the island, up about 18,500 cars and 75,500 people from last year. Almost 40,000 cars and 142,000 people have come to the island this year from countries other than Canada.

Water Bomber Task Force Ready in 1963

By ED COSGROVE

A fleet of six former RCAF Search and Rescue Canso amphibians are being groomed to make up a highly-mobile task force of water bombers that will lead the aerial attack on B.C. forest fires next year. Successful water drops of one of the six—the second to be converted to its new role—was carried out early this week at Patricia Bay.

A BOLD STEP

The planes—which will be based at strategic locations throughout the province during the fire season—represent a bold step by Vancouver and Calgary businessmen in creation of an air fleet of heavy planes capable of carrying big payloads.

Plans call for basing three planes at Patricia Bay and three at McCall Field, Calgary.

MAIN MARKET

And while the three Alberta-based planes will be available for fire fighting in both that province and neighboring Montana, main market for their services is expected to be B.C.'s interior forests.

"Water bombers, like ambulances, recognize no international boundaries," said Calgary lawyer M. A. Meers, president of Cal-Air Services Ltd., and that company's B.C. subsidiary, National Air Tankers Ltd.

TWO CONVERTED

Two Cansos of the fleet have already been converted and are now operational but future conversions of four more of the venerable flying boats, which for 20 years were the mainstay of RCAF search and rescue operations, calls for fitting them with heavier, Wright Cyclone engines.

The heavier engine will mean a payload boost from the present 500 gallons of water to close to 1,700 gallons, plus an increase in speed from 125 to 180 miles an hour.

TORONTO, SIDNEY

Initial conversions of the planes were carried out at Toronto and further refinements were made by Fairley Aviation at Sidney, said Mr. Meers.

The two planes now operational represent a value of $75,000 each, he said. The remaining four, with the heavier engines, will be valued at about $100,000.

Both Cal-Air and National

Air Tankers were formed early this year. Vice-president is Vancouver businessman George O'Brien.

"We have studied the need for a water bomber fleet in Western Canada for some time and have come to the conclusion that the forest industry has reached the point where they cannot afford the annual losses due to fires," said Mr. O'Brien.

He said $44,000,000 worth of timber was lost last year.

The Canso, with its long range and ability to carry a heavy payload, will cut water bombing costs up to 75 per cent, he added.

CONRAD WATLING

City Senate Unwanted

Suggestion by former Victoria mayor Claude Harrison that ex-members of council comprise an unofficial city "senate" isn't likely to gain much support from city hall, Mayor R. B. Wilson said yesterday he thought such a move would "merely add to the confusion."

Blast Mishap 'Just as Well'

A heavy floodgate accidentally dropped shut Friday during the big twin explosions at Horne Lake, trapping masses of silt in the tunnel system designed to carry controlled-temperature water from the lake to Big Qualicum River. It was disclosed yesterday.

But Charles Clay, chief engineer on the Canadian fisheries department project, last night said it may be just as well the mishap occurred.

The silt now will have to be excavated from the tunnel system but the river is free of the silt, which was to have been flushed right through the tunnel system into it.

LIKE WINDOW

The gate, which moves up and down like a window, was being held open by a makeshift arrangement consisting of cables attached to a steel beam across the top of an uncompleted vertical shaft.

"When the first explosion went, we could see the beam vibrating up and down," Mr. Clay said last night. "When the dust and smoke from the second explosion cleared, the beam wasn't there any more."

The gate is to close off, when desired, flow from the vertical shaft into a 1,700-foot, eight-foot-diameter tunnel leading to the river. The gate is eventually to be operated by machinery.

Into the vertical shaft comes water from Horne Lake, through two tunnels, and a surface intake channel, each of which draws water from the lake at a different depth. Friday's twin explosion was to blast rock plugs from the entrances to the two tunnels.

MIXED WATER

The proportion of water entering the vertical tunnel from each of the three tunnels is to be controlled, thereby controlling the temperature of the mixed water which goes out the 1,700-foot tunnel into Big Qualicum River.

The fisheries department plans by means of the tunnel system and other parts of the project to control the amount and temperature of water in the river and thus give it maximum efficiency as a spawning ground for salmon.

City Sleuth Plays Key Role

By JACK FRY

A Washington State family caught up in property feuds and trouble with the authorities will "start a new life in peaceful surroundings in Victoria."

A Victoria police investigator played a key role in solving the mysterious disappearance of the family of seven and the burning of their home near Eatonville, Wash.

Misling after their farm home burned July 27, and object of a wide international search by police throughout the Pacific Northwest were Gilbert J. Hoster, his wife and five children.

THE ONLY PERSON

Conrad Watling, manager of National Investigation Agency here, was the only person who knew for certain that Mrs. Hoster and her children were in Victoria.

Police had traced them to Victoria but were given to understand by other sources they had returned to the United States.

Mr. Hoster disappeared from the Eatonville area after fire engulfed the family home, a smaller house, a truck and the family's personal possessions piled in a heap in the yard.

FAMILY WORKED

Police wanted the whole family for questioning in connection with the fire. Relatives of Mrs. Hoster in Vancouver and Nanaimo were pressing police to find out whether the family was still alive.

The mystery heightened when detective Watling walked into the Tacoma office of Sheriff Frank Stojack, introduced himself as a private investigator from Canada and stated he had "certain intimate facts about the family."

MYSTERY MAN

Sheriff Stojack went into conference with Mr. Watling, refused to reveal the mystery man's identity or mission to local newsmen.

The daily Tacoma News Tribune subsequently carried a banner front page headline: "Private Eye" Probe Backs Strange Eatonville Fire-Disappearance Case.

Watling brought a deputy sheriff back to Victoria for a rendezvous at the airport with Mrs. Hoster and the children, to establish they were here and well. A search for three six members of the family was subsequently called off.

Other mysteries were then cleared up.

PLEADS GUILTY

Gilbert Hoster surrendered to the police Friday, pleaded guilty Monday to second-degree arson. He was freed yesterday to rejoin his family in Victoria and is expected to arrive here today.

Prosecutor John McCutcheon recommended Hoster be released on his personal recognizance after being assured the man would return for sentencing.

PROBATION LIKELY

"It would appear this is a case where the prosecution will recommend probation," said McCutcheon.

Investigator Watling is expected to arrive home today from Tacoma.

It is understood he was hired by Mrs. Hoster to find her husband, after things went amiss back at the farm. The Hosters had decided to demolish their home and sell the remains along with their 125-acre farm after being involved in a civil action with neighbors over access to the property.

DECISION ON GATE

Decision was taken after a court ruling that a gate leading to their property was to be padlocked and only the family could gain entry through it, it is believed.

Mrs. Hoster and the family were to wait in Victoria and be joined by the husband after the demolition. Apparently difficulty was encountered in getting the buildings demolished, touching off the fire episode and mysterious disappearance which brought so much publicity to the Hoster family.

Crippled Veteran Burns to Death

Hot Tobacco Ashes Blamed for Blaze

Smouldering tobacco ashes are believed to have sparked a fire that ripped through a Colwood motel cabin yesterday, killing its aged occupant.

Dead is John Matthews, 80, a crippled veteran of two wars, whose badly burned body was found sprawled on the floor of the two-room cabin only three feet from safety.

It is believed the man was overcome by smoke before the flames reached him.

LIVED WITH SON

Mr. Matthews, who lived with his son, Charles, in the tiny cabin at Belmont Auto Court, Trans-Canada Highway, was alone when the fire started at 4 a.m.

A neighbor in an adjoining cabin gave the alarm. Twenty Colwood volunteer firemen battled the blaze for more than an hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Nelson, occupants of a neighboring cabin, said they were awakened by the sound of someone hammering on Mr. Matthews' door.

HEARD SIRENS

"They were trying to rouse him ... we heard the sirens and saw the flames through our window ... It almost agreed to our cabin," said Mr. Nelson.

Mr. Matthews wore a brace on his left leg as a result of a First World War wound.

Firemen said he was evidently sitting in an easy chair near the stove when the fire started. They said the stove was not lit.

His son had left earlier to spend the night with a sister who lives at a trailer park nearby. Mr. Matthews had lived at the motel since moving here from Kamloops three years ago.

Deputy coroner Edmund J. de St. Jorre said an inquiry will be held into the death.

Neighbor Tom Nelson points to chair in which fire victim, 80-year-old John Matthews, is believed to have slept as he burned to death in Colwood motel cabin yesterday. Mr. Matthews was alone in cabin at time of fire. A smouldering cigaret is blamed.—(Robin Clarke photo.)

Closure Bylaw Approved

NANAIMO — The controversial service station closing bylaw has been passed by city council, in its original form.

The petroleum industry committee objected to the requirements that garages which are permitted to operate on a 24-hour basis must have two employees on duty at all times and that a service vehicle be available for towing jobs.

These requirements are regarded by the industry committee as "unreasonable and insupportable."

Communists Hit

Vietnamese Renew Attacks

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese troops, aided by United States helicopters, staged their third assault on Communist rebels in a week yesterday, killing 10 guerrillas and capturing three others, American military sources said.

South Vietnamese army spokesmen reported that 40 "hard core" Communist Viet Cong officers were among 73 rebel guerrillas killed in a battle last Saturday only 30 miles from here.

LEADER KILLED — There was no official announcement on government losses in the fight, but unconfirmed reports said loyalist forces lost 12 dead and 16 wounded. A district political leader also was said to have been killed.

Last Wednesday, South Vietnamese troops located and destroyed an important Communist supply base 35 miles north of Saigon in what was described today as an "airborne mop-up operation."

Yesterday's helicopter-supported raid was a "search and clearing" operation in Long An province near Saigon.

NANAIMO — Ald. Doug Greer told city council many traffic deaths are caused by old cars. He urged a safety inspection program for old cars to reduce mishaps caused by mechanical defects.

Alberni Council Accepts $477,011 Sewer Tender

ALBERNI — Council has accepted a $477,011.80 tender of Interior Contracting Co. Ltd. for a sewer system to serve approximately 80 per cent of the area of the city.

Mayor Fred Bishop said following a meeting with representatives of the firm Interior Contracting will have men in the city within two weeks. Estimated period for completion of the job is 180 days.

PURCHASE URGED — A report from Associated Engineering Services' W. H. Rolston told of quotations received for supply of a sewage pump station not included in the contract and recommended purchase of the equipment from Mc & Mc Ltd. at a price of $8,654.

In a breakdown of costs, the engineering firm listed the general contract cost, purchase and installation of the pump station at Margaret Street and Arrowmouth, $14,500; installation of a third pump in the Port Alberni station, $7,000; allowance for repaving following laying of mains, $25,000; engineering, $30,000; contingencies, $25,000; supervision, $19,200; for a total cost of $597,711.80.

REBATES HELP — Rebates under the winter work plan and on a federal loan are expected to bring the net cost down to $525,461.

The sewer system is being built under a $800,000 money bylaw approved by owner-electors in April of this year.

LETTER READ — Read during the meeting was a letter from Alberni Ratepayers and Citizens Society protesting the awarding of the contract and suggesting the project was too great a burden on the taxpayers.

The society claimed the project was a "fantastic and tyrannical scheme" and the electors had not been fully informed prior to placing the matter before them in a referendum.

Mayor Bishop denied the charge and also denied the society's claim that the underlying motive for the sewer project was to raise land values in new areas of the city.

"The department of health has for years been stressing the need for sewers here. The underlying reason for undertaking the project is a matter of health, though certainly land values will benefit," the mayor said.

He also told of an interview last week with members of the department of municipalities in which he had discussed the bond market. "The department did not recommend a hold-up in our project," he said.

Twelve bids received for supply and installation of mains, manholes and other work involved in the main contract ranged from Interior Contracting's low of $477,011 to a high of $718,450.

'Ma' Still Hopes

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UPI) — Grey-haired Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Duncan clung to hope last night that her son, husband of the woman slain at "Ma" Duncan's order, would save her from death today in the San Quentin gas chamber.

Mrs. Duncan's attorneys, including her son Frank, were turned down Tuesday in petitions to the U.S. Supreme Court and to the U.S. District Court in Los Angeles but planned to carry the fight to the last possible minute. (See Page 6.)

A prison official said Mrs. Duncan, 58, appeared to be "in a dream world" as she arrived at San Quentin from the state prison for women at Corona in southern California. She is scheduled for execution at 10 a.m.

U.K. Firm On Parley For Fall

LONDON (CP) — The British government apparently has no intention of changing its plans for the prime ministers' conference here Sept. 10 despite a suggestion from the deputy Labor leader that it be postponed. Some observers suggest that the government—now that the initial disappointment over the deadlocked Common Market talks has ebbed a bit—is growing hopeful that much can be accomplished, although there will be no firm outline of market membership terms to put before the Commonwealth leaders.

Blast Blaze Flickers Out

MAPLE, Ont. (CP) — Flames blazing since Saturday night in the shambles of an explosion-torn propane gas plant flickered out Tuesday night, but firemen said one 35,000-gallon tank was still dangerously hot. With about 24 families barred from their neighborhood homes for fear of further blasts, firemen were spraying the red-hot tank with water to cool it down.

His Hand Replaced Long Ago

CALGARY (CP) — Forty-year-old Bud Toner, a Calgary painter, flexed the hand and wrist that were sewn back on his arm 36 years ago by a country doctor whose name has been forgotten, and said:

"The doctor told mom and dad the wrist and hand would always be stiff, but look now..."

The incident of the severed limb which was sewn back on by a Saskatchewan doctor in 1926 was recalled as the medical spotlight focused on recent rare operations which have rejoined severed limbs.

'FOR THE RECORD'

"I'm tickled pink to hear Calgary doctors have sewn back on Hazel Dondin's arm and that boy's arm in Boston, but for the record I think that Saskatchewan doctor who tacked Bud's wrist to his body should be mentioned," said Bud's father, Mark Toner.

The doctor is remembered only as "Dr. George" — the Toners are not sure whether it was his surname or his Christian name—but the details of the accident and the operation are well remembered.

ASLEEP IN FIELD

Bud, three years old, was asleep in a field of rye on the family's farm near Harris, Sask., 45 miles southwest of Saskatoon. His mother, driving a binder, did not see the boy among the tall stalks. She heard a little scream and found Bud writhing on the ground behind the machine.

A sliver of skin held hand and wrist to arm. His leg was broken in two places.

Surgeons Hope For Success

CHICAGO (AP) — Three surgeons were guardedly optimistic yesterday as to the condition of a 41-year-old bindery worker whose severed right hand was rejoined to his arm at the wrist in a rare operation.

Testing Race Looming Up

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

An intensified testing race, multiplying the risks and dangers of accidental nuclear war, may be in the making between Russia and the United States if no progress is made in current test ban negotiations at Geneva. The U.S. has indicated willingness to modify its position on international inspection and control as part of renewed negotiations with Russia for a permanent ban on all nuclear testing.

There is ground for suggesting, in the event that all current efforts to work out a complete test ban fail, that there might at least be a way open to ending atmospheric tests, leaving the nuclear powers free to underground tests and their lesser fallout. The U.S. might agree to an East-West moratorium on air tests if Russia would join in the pledge.

In other words, the U.S. is prepared to go a long way from its previous fixed position in order to work out an agreement that might provide a significant first step in turning humanity's dream of disarmament into reality.

RESPONSE COOL

But Russia remains cool. The initial Soviet reaction is that the new American position does not offer any great hope for cracking the East-West stalemate.

Russia wants a nuclear test ban to be based solely on national inspection systems, with no foreign inspection on her soil.

FOOLPROOF EVIDENCE
U.S. authorities argue it may be comparatively easy to police an atmospheric nuclear ban through improved detection systems. But while these systems may provide a way of reducing the number of on-site inspections, they would not eliminate entirely the need for such inspections.

Not Much Like Mule

It's mighty like a pony, sighs Harry Cousins of 3981 Borden while he examines the colt from his pony Cherokee which he had bred by a donkey. As any donkey knows, a donkey and a horse make a mule, and Mr. Cousins had been hoping for a pony-size pinto—two-colored—mule. The colt is pinto, like Cherokee, but doesn't look like a mule. Cherokee was in seclusion for three weeks after the breeding and assuming the donkey was sire—Mr. Cousins thinks anything else is improbable—the colt was born 10 days late.—(Colonist photo.)

Bedside Ceremony For New Cabinet

OTTAWA (CP) — For the first time in Canadian history new members of the cabinet are to be sworn in at the prime minister's home instead of the governor-general's residence. Because of Prime Minister

Diefenbaker's ankle injury, Thursday's noon swearing-in ceremony will take place in his house at 24 Sussex Drive.

Reversing the usual procedure, Governor-General Vanier will cross the street from Rideau Hall to receive the new ministers. The actual swearing-in is done by Robert Bryce, clerk of the Privy Council.

The present cabinet is to meet at 10:30 a.m. today at the prime minister's residence at which time he may inform his ministers of the appointments he plans.

Five vacancies were created in the 24-member cabinet by the June 18 general election.

Motorist Burns To Death

A southbound motorist died in a burning car that went out of control and struck a railing on the Diamond Bridge north of Ladysmith last night.

The accident victim's name was being withheld pending notification of next-of-kin. He was not believed to be a local man.

Police said the car went out of control, struck the bridge and burst into flames.

An autopsy revealed the man was unconscious during the fire.

Timber Lord Founds Fund

VANCOUVER (CP) — R. E. MacMillan, British Columbia timber magnate, has established a $2,000,000 trust fund for education and welfare.

LETHBRIDGE (CP) — A man who flew aloft—briefly—in a parachute at the end of a tow rope, squeaked through a black eye from his hospital bed and said: "I don't think I'll try it over land again."

The airborne adventure of George Sinclair, 38, of Coaldale, Alta., landed him in hospital with a broken pelvis, black eye and skinned arms.

"My career is ended for this year," he said dejectedly. "But watch out next year."

The parachute flip Sunday which saw him soaring up to 20 feet above the earth was just another in a series of daredevil escapades for the Coaldale fireman.

LONDON (CP) — Angry villagers Tuesday night stormed past cudgel-swinging guards to break up a Nazi camp in the English countryside.

But the raiding party from the village of Gilling Power in Gloucestershire found no trace of George Lincoln Rockwell, the self-styled American fascist who earlier Tuesday was ordered deported from Britain.

Scotland Yard has been told to look for Rockwell, who spent the weekend at the camp.

TENTS TORN DOWN
Led by five stalwarts from the Farmer's Arms, the local village pub, 100 men and women tore down tents, stamped out camp fires and put the jack-booted Nazi sympathizers to flight.

A shotgun blast tore out the centre of a swastika flag which fluttered above the rally, organized by Colin Jordan's British National Socialist Movement.

PLEE TO WOODS
With the tents down and their contents strewn over the field, about 50 campers grabbed what belongings they could find and fled into surrounding woods and fields.

Local farmers scuffled on the ground with campers wearing uniforms of grey shirts, shorts and leather belts. A number of foreign delegates to the rally were beaten up.

Jordan's right-hand man, John Tyndall, was punched in the face. Jordan stood away from the scuffle but fiercely argued his party's case.

'RID OF JEWS'
"We want to get rid of the Jews," he roared.

As he spoke, his tattered swastika flag was torn down and carried off as a battle trophy.

Advisory Council Studied

Formation of a Canadian national economic advisory council will be discussed in the near future in Ottawa and provincial capitals across the country.

Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba was requested by the third conference of provincial premiers which ended yesterday in Victoria to detail his suggestions for setting up such a body. (See Page 7.)

His memorandum will be supplied to all the provincial premiers and Prime Minister Diefenbaker for study by their governments.

Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec, chairman of the two-day conference of premiers, told reporters the provinces would continue to study the proposal in the light of information contained in the memorandum.

"We have reached no conclusions here," said Premier Lesage. "This was simply a first exploratory move."

Quebec Fears Termed Just

Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec said in Victoria the people of his province are justly uneasy because of the tendencies they perceive today in the development of the federal system of government.

The federal machinery, he said Tuesday night, has been misused in the course of Canada's history, either for administrative convenience or because of emergency such as war.

"The central government has assumed numerous responsibilities, which constitutionally belonged to the provinces," the Quebec premier said.

position of French-Canadian Quebec in it are not new but are more widespread than in the past because the people there have developed considerably.

"They now feel that they can play a bigger part in the life of our country," he said.

Just Wait Till Next Year Says Flying Daredevil

The day before the accident, George was soaring around the Coaldale ball park. But he has made most of his flights over water, at the end of a tow rope.

"You feel light as a feather up there. Real nice. It's a great sensation," he said.

His Sunday flight plan called for a friend, Edward Smith, of Lethbridge, to drive a tug with George and his parachute in tow.

As the tow rope tightened, George began running, his specially designed parachute trailing. He leaped into the air at about 10 m.p.h. Nothing happened.

He ran a little more, leaped again and this time the wind hit the open chute. In his rear view mirror, Ed could see

George's feet dangling. Then Ed wondered:

"Where did George go? He's not up there where he should be."

He found the parachutist pined up on the ground. He gave mouth-to-mouth artificial respiration. Then the ambulance took the low-flying aviator to hospital.

George said he remembered nothing after a hook on the parachute harness broke. He recalled floating like a bird, then waiting up in hospital.

The parachute mishap probably means no more water skiing—without skin—for him. He plans to bounce along behind a tow boat, sitting on a kitchen stool mounted on a couple of summers.

'Miracle Operations' Old Hat To Witness of 1937 Grafting

VANCOUVER (CP) — Today's "miracle operations" in which severed limbs are sewn back on are old hat to Albert Wannop, 68.

He saw the same thing happen on his kitchen table in 1937.

Mr. Wannop said in an interview he was moving his

Champion, Alta., when he ran over his son James, about 3. He said his son's foot was severed at the ankle and the foot, he thinks it was the right, was dangling by one cord.

He rushed his son to the house about a mile away and phoned Dr. Edwin H. Fries at Champion. Dr. Fries was at the house in 15 minutes.

"He sewed the severed limb back in place as best he could, put on a splint, and took him (the boy) 80 miles to Calgary."

"When he got to the hospital the doctor there said the job was so good he couldn't improve on it."

The foot was put in a cast. It took six months before James, now a United Church minister at Ashmont, 120 miles northeast of Edmonton, could walk. He now only has a slight limp.

A. J. D. Hagerman of Calgary, a former member of the Champion council, Tuesday night said he remembered the operation.

"It was more than a miracle," said Mr. Wannop who left his farm 20 years ago and moved to Vancouver.
